

#2. EL CAMPO DE CEBADA

Location:
Madrid, Spain
Year: 2010

Theme(s):
Partnership/ Inclusivity/ Stakeholder involvement

Languages: English

WHY IS THIS A GOOD EXAMPLE?

People came together and planned the area according to their needs, resulting in a multi-purpose area with sport facilities, that also works as a living room for citizens.

DESCRIPTION

People of all ages, parents of children attending nearby schools and collectives of young architects came together under the name of "El Campo de Cebada" to confront the challenges of how to maintain the communities use of the space until work began on the new facilities. The contents of the area are constantly shaping a resourceful, flexible container in an open, dynamic process in which people with technical know-how never abandon the work. They are in partnership with the users in being part of the project and in training them by sharing skills and goals with them.
